MEDIA RELEASE

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE: July 27, 2011

Professional Learning Services Split

(Toronto)— This year, Curriculum Services Canada's manager of Professional Learning Services (PLS) role will be split into two distinct areas of focus—instructional design and project management.

Colleen Adl has managed the PLS team with great success for the past year. Under her guidance and expertise, this division has created a variety of exceptional learning resources for a number of satisfied clients. In order to better serve this area of resource development, Colleen will shift her focus to the Instructional Design (ID) element of PLS. As manager of the ID aspect of PLS, Colleen will be able to focus directly on the design, development, implementation, and evaluation of multi-media resources. Colleen will undoubtedly succeed in her new role, and we look forward to her creative impact on the ID sector of PLS.

In the project management role, CSC will welcome a new talent to the team. As posted, we are in search of a talented leader with a wealth of knowledge in educational project development and oversight, client relations, business development, and a passion for learning technology. For further information regarding this position, read more on the CSC website.
